Planning for PBRF 2012

The Performance-Based Research Fund (PBRF) is one of the main sources of government funding for the tertiary education sector and its primary goal is to encourage and reward research excellence. The next PBRF Quality Evaluation will be held in 2012 and will be a full round; all eligible staff will be assessed on evidence from 1 January 2006 to 31 December 2011. This talk will outline the construction and assessment of evidence portfolios. There will be plenty of time for questions and discussion.
